

SCHOOR DEPALMA COMMUNITY FOUNDATION CONTRIBUTES TO EAGLETON INSTITUTE

Charitable Extension of Manalapan Firm Pledges $5,000 for Scholarship & Internship Programs

New Brunswick, NJ – October 10, 2006 – The Schoor DePalma Community Foundation (SDFC), the philanthropic arm of the engineering and consulting firm Schoor DePalma, recently pledged a donation of $5,000 to The Eagleton Institute of Politics for scholarship and internship programs enabling students of all socioeconomic levels the chance to learn from hands-on experience. For 50 years, Eagleton has linked the study of politics with its day-to-day practice, and has focused attention on preparing our future leaders through programs such as Women and Politics, the Youth Political Participation Program and the Young Elected Leaders Project.

The Eagleton Institute of Politics is a respected education, research and public service unit of Rutgers, The State University of New Jersey. The Institute is located on the University's New Brunswick campus.

“We are proud to be a part of the work of The Eagleton Institute,” said John Walsh, Chairman of the Schoor DePalma Community Foundation. “Our Foundation is pleased to support the educational opportunities afforded by the Institute.”

Schoor DePalma has long held the belief that it has a responsibility to support the local communities it serves on an ongoing basis. This philosophy led to the creation of the SDCF in 2004. Since its inception the Foundation has donated over $600,000 to benefit causes as far reaching as relief efforts for international disasters and as close to home as hardship assistance for individuals within the firm. Their community outreach programs support a number of educational, emergency, cultural, medical, and social needs of the community.
